Write AT LEAST 400 words on one of the following subjects.

1. Write the dialogue which might take place in a TV debate between someone in favour of, and someone against the censorship of videos and TV programmes.
 2. Write a letter to a friend in which you try to decline an invitation, without hurting your friend's feelings.
 3. Writers often take traditional themes and re-write them in new ways. Why do they do this? Give examples from texts you are familiar with.
 4. Imagine you are an adventurer, alone on a dangerous journey. You keep a diary as an account of the many incidents you experience. Write a brief extract from your diary.
 5. Write a newspaper editorial for the headline "Realities of the Global Village".
 6. We care for and play with animals; we also hunt and kill them. Why do you think animals – both domestic and wild – play such a significant part in our leisure activities?
