University news & events

The UGR Induction Sessions for the 2020-2021 academic year, organised by the Vice-Rectorate for Student Services and Employability at the University of Granada, will be held online on 7 October 2020. Participants will be provided with live, online support and will gain access to all the relevant information for a month. In this way, University of Granada students, especially our new students, will be offered the resources, activities, and services to facilitate their adaptation and integration into the university environment and the city of Granada.

The organisers of the event — the Vice-Rectorate for Student Services and Employability, and its Secretariat for Student Information, Participation and Societies — are currently working on this new virtual format in which, as usual, UGR services as well as external institutions and companies will participate.
